Mr. Eric P. Newman
6450 Cecil Avenue
St. Louis 5, Missouri

Dear Eric:

The Money Museum does have a full time receptionist and a security guard is stationed on the mezzanine in close proximity to the museum. However, his primary responsibility is surveillance of the international banking area rather than the museum.

Visitors are invited to sign a guest register but there is no metal detection facility. We have never even had an attempt to break in an exhibit case.

When we move to Renaissance Center next year our security requirements will be much more stringent. Exhibit cases containing high-priced material will have 5/16" burglar resistant glass and the entire display floor will be equipped with an infra-red motion detector. Push button alarm activators will be installed at the receptionist's desk as well as my own. Closed circuit television is also being considered. If we plan to be open after the branch office closes a security guard will be required.

Please write if I can be of further assistance.

Sincerely,

SEB

Dear Cliff:

Thank you and Gary Dougherty for your cooperation in providing the security for our move last Wednesday. Due to your efforts, the move was without incident and, in our opinion, a success.

I would especially compliment the four men who actually were involved with the move. They displayed a high degree of professionalism and courtesy.

Dear Eric:

I have recently been notified by Alexander & Alexander, our insurance carrier for the Money Museum, that they will provide coverage for objects similar to those now insured under our present policy, but belonging to others than the Eric P. Newman Numismatic Education Society. The requirements to insure these other exhibits will be similar to the ones we presently maintain.

If we wish to exhibit others' currency or coin, we will have to provide the insurance company with a copy and an assessed evaluation. If we wish to exhibit other artifacts, periodicals, etc., we will have to provide them with a brief description of the object and an estimated value. The premium for this coverage will be determined by the actual values insured for at the time that they are actually insured.

This means that you will be free to have other exhibits come and go as you please, and still maintain full coverage from the same insurance company. If you have any questions concerning the above, please feel free to call me.

Sincerely,

Re: Money Museum - Content Insurance

Dear Bill:

Thank you for your letter of February 19, 1981 with respect to insurance coverage.

As you know, the items in the exhibition cases now are owned either by Eric P. Newman or by Eric P. Newman Numismatic Education Society or by Ruth Hill. These have been identified and valued already.

The books in the library have been listed on library cards and photocopies have been prepared. Those books are owned by Eric P. Newman or by Eric P. Newman Numismatic Education Society. Would it be possible to turn over photocopies of this listing to your insurance company without specific values being assigned? The insurance carrier would have a much easier time ascertaining replacement values of books in the library than exhibits in the museum cases. This would save me many hours of work. The bulk of the books would not exceed $25.00 in value each. A few books would be in the $500.00 to $2,500.00 range. Perhaps I could list only those books which have a value of $100.00 or more. The word "book" as I use it includes a pamphlet, broadside or other printed or manuscript item.

Would you be nice enough to investigate this.

Sincerely,

Eric P. Newman

SUBJECT: ACCESS TO THE MONEY MUSEUM

Effective Monday, March 9, 1981, the following are the access controls which will be enforced for the Money Museum on the Podium level of the Tower:

1. The Money Museum will be open to the public from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. on normal banking days. During this time, there will be free access to the general area of the Museum, but not to the Library or the storage area.

2. During secured periods (non-banking hours) the following personnel will have access to the general area after signing in and out of the Money Museum Security log:

   - o Housekeeping personnel normally assigned this duty.
   - o Maintenance and security personnel who will also have access to the storage area.
   - o Eric P. Newman who will have access to the entire area, including the Library.
   - o For emergency purposes only, the Security Supervisor on duty will have the authority to allow access to the Library.
   - o Any other access to the Museum, Library, or storage area during non-banking hours will be pre-authorized in writing by William G. Sgarlata or Thomas A. Bangert.
   - o All persons entering the Museum during secured periods will be required to sign in and out at the Podium level receptionist desk.

3. Access to the display cases will be limited to dual authorization by Mr. Eric P. Newman and either W. G. Sgarlata or T. A. Bangert. A security person is to be present at all times when a case is unsecured. There will be no exceptions to the above.

This memorandum supersedes any previous memorandums concerning access to the Money Museum.

Dear Eric:

This morning I have reached an agreement with Alexander and Alexander to insure the books and similar material in the Library of the Money Museum. The agent informed me that he was binding the coverage as of this morning at $100,000.

As you and I have discussed earlier the following must be accomplished by you in order to complete our portion of the contract:

- Provide me with two complete copies of all library cards representing items in this Library.

- On any item of $500 or more in value, place the value and your initials on the copy of the card.

- Note any irreplaceable items and determine an insured value for each. Once you forward the set of copies to me I will date them and forward them to Mr. Tossing with Alexander and Alexander. He will in turn be forwarding to me an endorsement to our existing policy, and I will forward a copy of this to you.

In addition to the above, he and I discussed the procedure that will be followed in order to insure currency and non-currency items that are displayed in the Museum but which do not belong to the Eric P. Newman Numismatic Education Society. He states he does not need to know specifically to whom the items belong, just that the copies be forwarded to him in a timely manner as with the rest of the collection. He would suggest, however, that something in writing be developed between you and the lending party to determine that they wish us to insure these items and that if they carry insurance of their own that any claims will be made to their insurance first.

If you have any questions concerning the above, please feel free to give me a call.

Sincerely,

Dear Bill:

Thank you for your March 5, 1981 letter with respect to access to the Money Museum.

I would like it amended so that my wife, Evelyn E. Newman, may also have access to the library at anytime during secured periods, or otherwise.

There is a problem as to what procedure should be followed when the library is entered during hours in which the Museum is open. Should security be notified or not? Should I or my wife sign in and sign out?

I will appreciate your thoughts.

Dear Bill:

In accordance with your letter of March 10, 1981, and copies of various letters from Alexander & Alexander to you, we are delivering to you herewith in duplicate photocopies of the library cards of numismatic books of this organization and of Eric P. Newman personally. Virtually all of those books are in the museum library. A few are on exhibit in the museum cases, a few in the Bank's vault and some will be brought shortly to the museum library from elsewhere.

As to those valued over $500 each, there is written on the photocopy the current market value and the writer's initials EPN. There are many irreplaceable items which nevertheless do not have a market value of as much as $500 now. Values change from time to time, as you know.

The pairs of photocopies are generally in alphabetical order by author. You will have to separate these pairs in order to deliver one copy of each to the insurer and to keep one copy for yourself. We have retained a copy of each for our file.

The preparation of this data took considerable time and that was the reason for the delay.

Thank you for your cooperation.

Sincerely,
